Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If the period for reply specified above is less than thirty (30) days, a reply within the statutory minimum of thirty (30) days will be considered timely.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133).
- Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

Status

- 1) ☒ Responsive to communication(s) filed on 13 May 2002.
- 2a) ☒ This action is FINAL. 2b) ☐ This action is non-final.
- 3) ☐ Since this application is in condition for allowance except for formal matters, prosecution as to the merits is closed in accordance with the practice under Ex parte Quayle, 1935 C.D. 11, 453 O.G. 213.

Disposition of Claims

- 4) ☒ Claim(s) 1-3, 8, 9, 14, 15 and 17-19 is/are pending in the application.

DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

1. Applicant's arguments filed 5/13/02 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicant argues:

(a) The edge (101b), as disclosed in Grosser is substantially straight and does not anyway constitute a curved handle, or Grosser does not teach or suggest "a curved handle portion" of a handle.

(b) Grosser in view of Haughton do not teach "a retainer lid hingedly coupled to the retainer guide and rotated from an opening position to a closed position."

Examiner disagrees.

Response to argument (a), Grosser clearly shows an edge member (101b) disclosed in figure 1 having a curve on a top part of the edge portion (101b) and is not straight portion; however, Grosser definitely teaches the edge portion (101b) which is a handle having a curved handle portion for handling when insert/install into a computer system.

Response to argument (b):

Applicant does not recite "a retainer lid hingedly coupled to the retainer guide (Amend A, page 12, line 3), applicant only claimed "a retainer lid hingedly coupled to the at least one slot of the retainer guide (claim 14, line 11, and claim 19, line 12).

Haughton shows a retainer guide (140) having a retainer lid (144) including a lock bar (142) hingedly coupled to at least one slot (120). The retainer lid including the lock bar (142) having functions, which is lock circuit boards (135) when insert into a computer system (see figure 2 and unlock the circuit boards when the lock bar bents for remove the circuit board (135) from the system disclosed in figures 3-4. The flexible and bendable of the lock bar of the retainer lid which is/are caused rotate from an opening position to a closed position when the circuit board being inserted/removed from the computer system.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

3. Claims 1-4, and 8-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Grosser et al. (U. S. Patent 6,118,667).

As to claims 1 and 8, Grosser discloses an information-processing system (200, column 3, line 31) as shown in figures 1-2 comprising:

a housing (201, column 3, line 34); and a card insulator (100, column 3, line 10), the card insulator comprising:

a planar portion (101, column 3, line 11); and a curved handle portion (a side member having an edge 101b having a curve top part portion) coupled to the planar portion, the handle portion including a hooked element (top portion of the handle-see figure 1) for coupling the card insulator to the housing.

As to claim 2, Grosser discloses an information-processing system as shown in figure 2 wherein the housing (201) comprises first and second sides (201a, 201b, column 3, line 34) wherein the first side is opposite the second side.

As best understood to claims 3 and 9, Grosser discloses an information-processing system as shown in figure 2 further comprises a chassis (formed by two sides 201a, 201b), and the handle portion is coupled to the chassis via the hooked element.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 14-15, and 17-19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Grosser et al. (U. S. Patent 6,118,667) in view of Haughton et al. (U. S. Patent 5,982,627).

Grosser discloses an information-processing system (200) as shown in figures 1-2 comprising:

Art Unit: 2827

a housing (201) having first and second sides (201a, 201b-figure 2) wherein the first side is opposite the second side;

a card insulator (100), the card insulator comprising:

a planar portion (101); and a curved handle portion (a side member having an edge 101b) having a curve (upper edge of the handle) coupled to the planar portion, the handle portion including a hooked (top portion of the handle) element for coupling the card insulator to the first side of the housing;

an end portion (side part having edge 101a) coupled to the planar portion (101); and a retainer guide (206; 207, column 3, lines 37, 40), the retainer guide coupled to the second side of the housing, the retainer guide comprising; at least one slot (figure 2) for receiving the card insulator (100, column 3, lines 37-55).

Grosser does not show a retainer lid hingedly coupled to the at least one slot and rotated from an open position to a closed position.

Haughton shows a retainer guide (180-figure 1A) having a retainer lid (144) hingedly coupled to the at least one slot (120) and rotated from open to closed positions (see figures 2-4).

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use a lid of a retainer as taught by Haughton to employ the system of Grosser in order to provide a lock or unlock a circuit board (or card insulator) when inserted or removed from the system.

Conclusion

6. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
